A SIMPLE LESSON IN LOGIC — by Fred Radway

BLITZKRIEG HYSTERIA teaches us that we are unprepared for defense; therefore we must arm pronto, streamline fashion. Admitting that I don't know much, and seeing by the papers that new NAVAL AVIATION BASES are being constructed — I have a bone to pick. Being only a patriot, I have no axes or "COLUMNS" to grind, not even a fifth column. (Samson attacked a few columns until Delilah put her monkey-wrench into the feather pillow on his chest). But with apologies to J. Edgar Hoover; I happened to camp near a new naval air base this summer and I admit not being an ardent admirer of new naval architecture — because the new HANGARS are all built far above ground. The only thing missing are the direction flags, like those on a golf course — please, Mr. Enemy, this way to our new HANGARS, if you care to indulge in a little unfriendly BOMBING. (I hear that new AIRPORT designs somewhere put stock, lock and barrel all UNDERGROUND, but the truth sometimes hurts). My advise is to build invisible ultra-modern defenses and furnish no clues to the ENEMY, if there is one.

Good-bye Duchess.
